Canada has the largest area of peatlands in the world, encompassing 12% of the land area or 1.1 million km². These peatlands are essential to the global environment because they retain, purify, and deliver fresh water, store carbon, absorb pollutants, and support numerous species of plants and wildlife, many of them identified as endangered.